WORKSHOPS

Trainer Rob Holmes

Caulfield Racecourse, Melbourne

15th – 16th March 2010

Day 1 Monday 15 March 2010

Classroom Management

The training provides a plan to teach responsible behaviour for academic success at the beginning of the school year, discusses The Behaviour Management Cycle, and emphasizes the importance of building trusting relationships with students.

Classroom management helps teachers move beyond managing student behaviour to effectively establishing an environment that promotes academic success. Educators who utilise this work will become effective classroom managers.

Every educator knows that it only takes one disruptive student to lower the academic achievement of an entire class.

The foundation of Classroom Management for Academic Success (CMAS) is that Classroom Management Is the Key to Improving Academic Success.

Classroom management program is designed to specifically address for educators: improving the achievement of all students. This groundbreaking work will take educators beyond simply managing student behaviour to quickly and effectively establishing an environment that promotes academic success. This unique and comprehensive handbook, and associated training, will show teachers how to:

- Teach all students to behave from the first day of class by using comprehensive lesson plans in all classroom activities.
- Apply research based instructional strategies that motivate students to stay engaged in all classroom activities.
- Build trusting relationships with all students and parents using teacher-tested strategies.
- Establish a positive climate in a disruptive classroom using the “Two Week Turnaround Program”.

This workshop goes beyond the basic concepts of Assertive Discipline to establish a solid foundation for a positive environment where students will learn free from the distraction of disruptive behaviour.

Day 2 Tuesday 16 March 2010

Succeeding with Difficult Students

The Succeeding With Difficult Students workshop is designed specifically to help teachers manage challenging students and severe misbehaviour. The focus is on analysing and responding differently to individual student's misbehaviour.

This workshop program looks at ways to:

- build effective working relationships with difficult students by:
- building trust
- building bridges between teacher expectations and student reality understand the underlying motivation for misbehaviour by:

- identifying the four main profiles of students with challenging behaviour
- developing strategies to effectively deal with each profile of challenging behaviour
- strategies for dealing with off-task behaviour teach behaviour and modify it effectively with positive and negative consequences by:

Group discussion and practice of skills, with high quality written material to supplement the presentation.

- using reinforcement of expected behaviours and corrective actions according to profiles defuse confrontations and use one-to-one problem solving strategies by:

- use of one-to-one meetings
- contact with parents

allowing you to be a caring professional who is the leader in your classroom by:

- learning not to take issues personally
- familiarising yourself with your own reactions
- having better relationships with your students and better control of your classes

Trainer Rob Holmes

Workshop presented by Behaviour Management Australia's Rob Holmes, an experienced teacher, and guidance officer/ psychologist with extensive experience in training and implementation of behaviour management programs.

About Lee Canter

Lee Canter's groundbreaking classroom-management strategies are used in thousands of classrooms to create a positive, focused, and engaged learning environment. Turn around a disruptive classroom quickly or put a discipline plan in place the first day of school.

Learn teacher-tested strategies from two great Canter resources:
