Summary: The most important factor affecting learners isn't standards, textbooks or testing – it's teachers. Research has shown teachers what works. But the real challenge comes when it's time to do what works and do it well. In this book, Jane E Pollock shows how making the right adjustments in four critical areas of practice – curriculum, instructional planning and delivery, assessment, and record keeping and reporting – can help any teacher improve student learning. Along with step-by-step procedures, practical guidelines and models, this book features accounts of using the author's "Big Four" approach to achieve unprecedented levels of student success and professional satisfaction.
