

Hawker Brownlow Education

Catching Up or Leading the Way: American Education in the Age of Globalisation

Author: Yong Zhao

Date 10 December 2011
Available:
ISBN: 978174239 9300
Code: 109076
RRP: $28.95
Format: A5, 244 pages
Year Level: P-12
Category: Leadership
Subject: Professional Development

Summary:

With this book, educators, policymakers, parents and others interested in preparing students to be productive global citizens will gain a clear understanding of what kinds of knowledge and skills constitute “digital competence” and “global competence”, and what schools can –and must – do to meet the challenges and opportunities brought about by globalisation and technology.

This book will forever change the debate about what's wrong and what's right with education and where it should be going. With an extraordinary command of facts and thought leadership, Zhao describes how schools have to keep pace with a world that is being dramatically transformed by globalisation, the "death of distance", and digital technology.

Supporting Resources:

- 21st Century Skills: Rethinking How Students Learn (SOT7054)

Key Words:

Globalisation, digital competence, global competence, technology, educational reform

Hawker Brownlow
EDUCATION
PO Box 580
Moorabbin VIC 3189
Tel: +61 3 8558 2444
Fax: +61 3 8558 2400
Web: www.hbe.com.au
Email: orders@hbe.com.au