Summary:

Dr Payne has written Understanding Learning: the How, the Why, the What to complement her workbook Learning Structures which includes numerous strategies to help students learn vital content while building cognitive abilities. The book focuses on the development of the mind. Namely, through mediation, it aims to build an abstract architecture inside a child's head to act as a replication of reality. Only then, Payne argues, can a child go on to function at higher cognitive levels. Understanding Learning provides key background information about how and why these strategies work, along with a synopsis of brain research and cognitive studies.
