

Hawker Brownlow Education
Information Sheet

Cognitive Coaching: Weaving Threads of Learning and Change into the Culture of an Organization

Authors: Jane Ellison and Carolee Hayes

Date available:	24 August 2006
ISBN:	1 74170 068 X
Code:	CG068X
RRP:	$42.95
Format:	175 mm x 255 mm
Extent:	261 pgs
Age range:	Parents and Professional Development
Category:	Brain-based Learning and Professional Development

Summary:

See how Cognitive Coaching principles have been woven into schools, systems and classrooms – and get a complete look at the ongoing process of implementing and sustaining the coaching ideals – in this invaluable new guide!

Ideal for teachers, administrators, staff developers and district leaders familiar with Cognitive Coaching, this resource shows you what practitioners who have actually learnt and used Cognitive Coaching think about its applications – how they value its premises, practices and outcomes, and how they have found ways to integrate it into their own work cultures.

Key selling points:

- An important new book that builds on and extends the Cognitive Coaching principles of Costa and Garmston
- Ideal for teachers, administrators and staff developers familiar with Cognitive Coaching
- See how Cognitive Coaching principles have been used in schools, systems and classrooms

Supporting resources:

- Cognitive Coaching: A Foundation for Renaissance Schools – CG0663
- Effective School Leadership: Developing Principals through Cognitive Coaching – CG0698

Hawker Brownlow Education
PO Box 8580
Heatherton VIC 3202
Tel: + 61 3 8558 2444
Fax: + 61 3 8558 2400
Web: www.hbe.com.au
Email: orders@hbe.com.au