Key Selling Points:

- Developed and written by experts in education development and standards
- A potent tool for developing a thinking-skills curriculum
- Extensive in scope, encompassing all the latest in research on knowledge and processing

Summary:

A thoroughly updated guide to the nature of knowledge!

Marzano's Taxonomy is the most current and comprehensive guide in 50 years to define the new standard for education. Developed by Robert Marzano and John Kendall, internationally recognised experts in the development and improvement of standards for education, this field-tested and proven reference contains the most current research on the nature of knowledge and cognition and a reflection of the movement to standards-based education. Based on three domains of knowledge: information, mental procedures and psychomotor procedures; and six levels of processing: retrieval, comprehension, analysis, knowledge utilisation, metacognition and self-system thinking, this essential guide offers applications for:

- Designing and classifying educational objectives
- Creating assessments
- Redesigning state and school-level standards
- Formulating curriculum
- Outlining a thinking-skills curriculum
