Summary:

The exercises in 30 Reflective Staff Development Exercises for Educators have been designed to meet the specific needs of educators, and include:

- Fostering effective change
- Developing leadership skills
- Identifying and capitalising on staff assets
- Gaining and using new perspectives

Each of the 30 exercises is described in rich, full detail, including detailed instructions on process, appropriate group size, and contextual cues for best use. Questions for reflection help users explore the “what”, the “so what” and the “now what” of issues raised in the exercises. By incorporating reflective exercise into staff development, facilitators and participants will have the opportunity to engage deeply with new ideas and make connections between theory and practice.

30 Reflective Staff Development Exercises for Educators allows staff developers, principals, teacher leaders and anyone else involved in staff development to improve their contributions in a variety of forums, including formal staff development, school staff meetings, curriculum planning sessions, and school improvement team meetings.
