Summary:

Students learn about the people, places, and issues of the world's past through the multi-curricular activities in English, social studies, science, maths and the arts. Each book is divided into 3 major units, each with 9 sub-topics. With the exception of Exploration, Discovery and Encounter, the units are Issues, People and Places. Each topic includes background information and 5 interdisciplinary activities. In addition, an introductory activity and an open-ended culminating activity are offered for each of the 3 units.
