Teach Them How: A Resource for Reshaping Reading and Writing Classrooms

Authors: Kate Story and Marg Sneddon
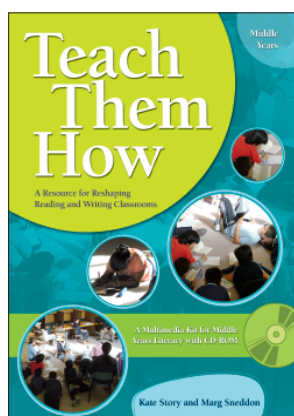

Date Available:	30 October 2007
ISBN:	1 74170 287 9 (book only)
	1 74170 528 2 (CD-ROM only)
Code:	HB2879 (book only)
	TTHCD (CD-ROM only)
	HB2879PK (book and CD-ROM)
RRP:	$50.00 (book only)
	$50.00 (CD-ROM only)
	$79.95 (book and CD-ROM)
Format:	A4, 202 pp (book)
	DVD, PC and Mac (CD-ROM)
Age Range:	Middle Years
Category:	Thinking Skills
Subject:	Literacy

Key Selling Points:

- Fully interactive CD-ROM features whole year plans for reading and writing
- Developed and successfully trialled by Australian middle years' teachers
- A complete package for middle years literacy

Summary:

Many middle years students are in a reading and writing limbo. They come into the middle years of schooling with a good foundation in the mechanics of reading and writing; they can decode and read words on the page, but can they work at making meaning from the print beyond the literal level? Do we, as teachers, know how to build on the foundations they have developed in reading, writing and comprehension? Do we have the necessary skills to teach them to further develop their reading, writing, speaking and listening? Have we stopped teaching them how?

Teach Them How: A Resource for Reshaping Reading and Writing Classrooms is a complete package for teachers in the middle years. The book and fully-interactive CD-ROM contains teaching models, units of work and proformas for assessment and reflection. Uniquely, professional and personal reflections are made throughout the text. Discover how to cultivate the reading and writing personalities of your students and develop their potential as strategic readers and writers.

Supporting Resources:

Spinning Heads with Thinking – 54295
CARS, STARS and CARS II series – various
Becoming a Great Teacher of Reading – CO4499