Summary:

Helping newcomers into the profession has always been a role embraced by some experienced teachers; most educators can remember a colleague who provided support to help them grow into the teaching role. This book has been written to support school teams endeavouring to make mentoring part of the culture of their schools. It provides a series of guidelines for planning, implementing and measuring a teacher-mentoring program, and covers topics such as designing a school mentoring program, gaining the interest of staff, training mentors and using mentoring to improve teaching and learning practices. With case studies, activities, workshop outlines and frequently asked questions, A Climate of Mentoring provides a practical, whole-school approach to developing a successful mentoring program.

Key selling points:

- Includes a general guide to mentoring, as well as specific steps for creating a school mentoring program.
- Provides activities to support induction, reflective practice, and standards.
- Authors are available to present mentoring program workshops.

Supporting resources:

- Reflective Practice: The Cornerstone for School Improvement (HB3046)
- Managing Change: Leading School Improvement (HB3348)
- Building Culture: A Framework for School Improvement (HB3399)
