Summary

Sometimes the challenge in seeking resource support in schools is not a shortage of information, but knowing which information is most relevant to school improvement efforts. This volume in the Improving Student Outcomes series shines the spotlight on our students. It outlines practical and research-based strategies to amplify student voice, and explores ways to empower our students to genuinely become navigators and authors of their own learning.

Students Driving Learning provides pathways for teachers and leaders to place students in the driver's seat of their learning as:

1. The Visible Learner
2. The Motivated Learning
3. The Empowered Learner
4. The Metacognitive Learner

Chapter extracts from leading international and Australian authors have been compiled to provide teams with research and practical strategies to motivate and empower all students to learn.
