Summary:

School improvement does not occur in a vacuum but in the dynamic environment of the school and its culture. Culture is a vital factor in implementing change initiatives. Understanding how culture develops and identifying tools to build culture are important skills for principals and leadership teams. Building Culture: A Framework for School Improvement provides the reader with procedures for analyzing and shaping the culture of a school, as well as outlining how school leaders can sustain culture for the future.

Key selling points:

- Contains diagrams, charts and case studies to support and illustrate the written material.
- Uses a mix of theory and practical ideas.
- The format of the book is easy to read and follow.
- Ability to choose between a variety of activities to support culture building, no matter what stage you are in.

Supporting resources:

- Reflective Practice: The cornerstone for School Improvement (HB3046)
- A Climate of Mentoring: Building Teams for School Improvement (HB3038)
- Managing Change: Leading School Improvement (HB3348)
