Summary:

Handwriting has become an increasingly neglected part of the primary years curriculum. But even more importantly, the foundation skills for writing are often almost forgotten. This book endeavours to help you create successful writers through the development of these essential skills. Activities are designed to enhance hand-eye and fine-motor coordination, as well as to reveal problems in these areas before they become an issue. Each is designed to canvas important developmental areas. Contents include: Writing stages, pre-writing activities, finger rhymes, strengthening activities, early intervention issues, full arm movement and finger dexterity exercises, and ideas for developing a successful handwriting program.
