Summary

Co-teaching at any grade level can be a challenge, because it requires educators to reshape their thinking, modify existing practices, and accept change. This reshaping is based on the understanding that these things are not easy for many of us!

Written by Drs. Lisa Dieker and Rebecca Hines, Professors at the University of Central Florida, well-renowned authors and teacher trainers in the field of co-teaching, this reference guide provides a wide range of evidence-based strategies.

It specifically addresses the seven (7) steps to successful co-teaching for educators working in middle and high school environments. A valuable resource for all professionals committed to building stronger, more effective co-teaching teams. This set contains 10 copies of the Co-Teaching in Secondary Schools: 7 Steps in Successful Inclusion reference card.
