

Chapter 1

The four band members were all very excited at their next practice.

The news that they were playing at the dance had gone around the school quickly. Before long everyone knew.

Everyone was going.

Some were going just to hear them play.

The band members were both excited and scared. Could they do it?

They thundered their enjoyment at the end of the first song, screaming, "More! More!"

Brendon began the second song and again the dancers began moving in time to the rhythm.

Each number brought the same response.

As they finished their last song, their friends shouted, "More! More! Again! Again!"

Ms Campbell nodded her head to Brendon.

Brendon quickly said, "Let's play the first one again. None of the other numbers are good enough yet!"

As the curtains drew closed after their last song, the kids on the dance floor were still screaming and whistling.

The band all leapt up and hugged each other. It had been a success!

Their friends had loved them! They could do it!
