Dear Eva,

We had our annual family picnic last weekend. Usually, all of my aunts and uncles and cousins come. But this year, all four cousins who are my age were sick! My two favourite cousins had chicken pox. It's no fun when there's no one your own age to play with!

My two newest cousins were at the picnic, though. Everybody wanted to play with them. All day, people said things like, 'Oh, he's as cute as a button.' 'He looks just like Cousin Paul!' 'She can put her thumb in her mouth. When did she learn to do that?'

Why do people get so excited about babies? Babies don't really do anything! Nobody even noticed that my two front teeth have grown in.

There was one good thing about the picnic. My aunts and uncles really know how to cook. I have never seen so much food. We had chicken and corn. We had coleslaw, potato salad and baked beans. I filled my plate twice. I had three helpings of potato salad. But I gave my coleslaw to Uncle Jack. (I'm glad Mum didn't see me do that. She would have wanted me to eat the coleslaw myself.)

Uncle Jack played catch with me after lunch. He taught me how to bowl overarm. Then he showed me how to whistle through my fingers. That's when Aunt Edna complained that we were being too noisy. 'Button your lip!' shouted Aunt Edna. She and Uncle Ned are always complaining. I don't think anyone was sad to see them leave early. Aunt Edna said she had a headache from all the noise.

Maybe next year all of my cousins will be able to come to the picnic. And maybe Uncle Ned and Aunt Edna will stay home!

Your friend,

Josh
