Summary

Develop your students' social and emotional skills with these 38 cooperative and engaging activities. Each activity is based on a Kagan structure. The activities are divided into three main sections:

1. Social skills development – activities include getting along, giving compliments and conflict resolution.
2. Emotional intelligence – activities provide positive guidance when students are feeling mad, annoyed, lonely and so on.
3. Character education – activities explore and develop virtues such as honesty, respect and cooperation.

Many teachers turn to Kagan because students become kinder and more socially adept as they use Kagan structures daily. This book takes it to the next level with activities explicitly designed to develop students' social skills, character and emotional intelligence.
