Summary

The Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA) presents U.S. educators with a rare opportunity to reconceive the shared purpose, priorities, and processes of schooling to better address students’ learning needs. In Responding to the Every Student Succeeds Act With the PLC at Work™ Process, authors Richard DuFour, Douglas Reeves, and Rebecca DuFour showcase how K-12 teachers, leaders, and administrators can make the most of this opportunity by committing to the Professional Learning Community (PLC) at Work process, which holds the greatest potential for maximising student achievement.

Readers will:

- Gain a brief history of U.S. education
- Assess the roles U.S. federal and state governments play in regard to ESSA
- Understand the importance of using the PLC at Work process to respond to ESSA
- Review effective strategies and mindsets that will enhance student learning
- Consider the right work PLC schools should engage in to ensure student success
